

[CELL DETECTION CHIP AND FABRICATING METHOD THEREOF AND CELL DETECTING METHOD]

Abstract

A microarray detection chip is described. The detection chip includes several probes immobilized on a matrix, and these probes have affinity with corresponding specific molecules on a cell membrane surface. Since these probes are correlated with the specific molecules on the cell membrane surface, this microarray detection chip can be used to recognize different types of the cells.